New Company Registration Form

THIS FORM WILL NOT BE FILED AT COMPANIES HOUSE. THE INFORMATION ON IT WILL BE USED TO CREATE THE DATA THAT WILL BE TRANSMITTED ELECTRONICALLY TO COMPANIES HOUSE.

Changes brought about by the Companies Act 2006

Private companies no longer need to appoint a Company Secretary but they must appoint at least one real person to act as a Director. Companies no longer have objects clauses in their Memorandum or have an authorised share capital. The capital of the company is the amount of shares issued. Every Director must now give a Service Address which will appear on the public record as well as their residential address that can only be accessed by Companies House and Credit Agencies.

A declaration of compliance will form part of the documents we transmit to Companies House. This requires the signature of each shareholder/Subscriber. We will consider the completion of this form to be your consent for us to submit this Form on your behalf.

COMPANY NAMES and STANDARD TERMS OF ENGAGEMENT

Companies House may, with specific exceptions specified under the Companies Act register any company name even where it is very similar to an existing name already on the Index. Therefore the fact that a name is registered does not mean it is safe to use without another party objecting. It is therefore essential that a proposed company name is well researched before you instruct us to register it. We will not be responsible for any problem resulting from an objection to a name following registration where there would have been a clear area of doubt as to its safety. It should also be borne in mind that neither we, nor Companies House consult the Register of Trade Marks when considering proposed names and there is no official register of Business Names. We will provide guidance and advice on the use of company names where a client seeks our advice but we will not necessarily question every proposed name suggested by a client on the basis that they would have considered the advisability of the name prior to instructing us. The Companies House Index of existing company names can be freely examined on their web site at www.companieshouse.gov.uk in the first instance. If in any doubt please seek our advice.
